

Expert Talk – Ar. Sanjay Patil, Nashik

Department of architecture MIT, Aurangabad organised an Expert lecture on “Campus Designing.” The invited Expert, Ar. Sanjay Patil (Principal Architect, Environ Planners Nashik) has a vast experience in shaping some of the remarkable institutional campuses. Ar. Sanjay Patil completed his graduation from J.J College of Architecture. He has established his own firm named “Environ Planners” in 1981 in Nashik. His approach has always been respecting nature and using it as an integral design element.

He explained to the budding architects, how the campus environment could significantly contribute to the learning and working experiences of the users. His insights provided the students a better understanding of the core theme of the Institute Design. He explained the relationship of built and unbuilt spaces. Emphasising the sustainable approach he acquainted students, about the use of locally available materials. He further explained how appropriate construction technique adopted could display a landmark having a global connection.
