

NASA Day Celebration

As a part of celebration of NASA DAY, The department of architecture MIT conducted a Sharma dan activity at Sankalpa Vanrai at Satara Parisar on 3rd Oct 2021 - An initiative for Afforestation.

A tour of Vanrai was conducted. The teams participated in the tree planting work and planted 150+ trees. Other teams undertook the important task of removing grass from tree side, picking up trash, and cleaning up the area. All the students and the Vanrai team did all the above with great enthusiasm. Students were also introduced to Vanrai and made aware of the importance of the future generation's responsibility towards the environment as a whole.

On behalf of the department, sketching and photography competition activities were conducted for the students in Vanrai area.